

Most people who get the virus will get better after a few weeks. Sometimes people get very sick though and can even die. It's hard to hear about death or know someone who may die from this. However, dying is part of being human. Thankfully, very few people get that sick.